Nifty Cincy

Wednesday, August 12, 2015

Here's a great, fun little trip right here in town! At the American Sign Museum you'll "Take a Walk Down Memory Lane". See a half-century of sign history, the fancy gold-leaf glass signs of the early 1900's, the pre-neon era of light bulb signs, neon's heyday in the 1930's-40's, and on to plastic era of the funky 1950s. You'll see sputnik-like signs from the Jetsons period and hand lettered show cards from the Las Vegas days of Frank Sinatra and the Rat Pack. Learn about neon and how it achieves different colors. Ever wondered what happened to some old well know signs around Cincinnati? You may well see them here! Later, we'll go to Lunken Airport's Sky Galley restaurant. The old terminal has a beautiful Art Deco design. It's amazing to think that over the years so many luminaries such as Charles Lindberg and the Beatles have flown in and out of here. Our private room at lunch has large windows overlooking the runway and we can watch small aircraft of all types. This afternoon we'll take the Mural Tour of Cincinnati. In 2007, Cincinnati began a campaign to create beautifully painted murals in all of the city's 52 neighborhoods. ArtWorks and their Youth Apprentices and Artists turned bare walls into public masterpieces. They have created 90 public murals in 36 Cincinnati neighborhoods. Our tour takes you to many of these wonderful paintings and you'll hear the story behind each one we see. What a fun-filled day! Don't miss it!
